

Illness

1. You should not volunteer if you have:
 - A gastrointestinal infection
 - Skin infection
 - Communicable disease
 - Temperature greater than 101° F.

2. If a child gets a communicable disease, the family should notify the Teacher/Director immediately in order that other members whose children have been exposed may be notified.

3. A child is not allowed at school with:
 - Strep throat that has not been treated for 24 hours with an antibiotic.
 - Rash of acute onset, associated with fever or symptoms of illness.
 - Oral fever of 100 degrees or greater.
 - Vomiting and/or diarrhea.
 - Impetigo with less than 24 hours of treatment with an antibiotic.
 - Fresh, runny nose and watery eyes (less than 24 hours old).
 - If your child has been ill with a contagious disease (other than a cold), the child may return to school if the family is certain the infectious stage is past. (If you are not sure, check with your physician.)
 - Lice
 - Child sent home for lice; allowed to remain in school for the day with nits only. For both/either situation, the child is only allowed back in school only AFTER treatment and AFTER coordinator checks head and determines head is clear.

4. If your child becomes ill at school, the family will be called to pick up the child. Always leave a phone number where you or someone who is on your pickup list can be reached.

5. If there is illness in your family and you are not sure if your child is sick, keep the child home. School is an intense experience even for the healthy child.

Injuries

All injuries, however minor, should be reported immediately to the teacher and recorded by her on the Accident Report Sheet. Families will be informed of all injuries.

In case of a life-threatening situation, the teacher or other certified person will care for the child. One adult will call 911 for transport and then try to reach the family or emergency contact person to have them meet at the emergency room. Please keep your telephone numbers current.

Alaska State Statutes require that all licensed childcare providers report all incidents of suspected or actual abuse and neglect of children within 24 hours to the Alaska Division of Family and Youth Services Child Protection Office
